ENGEL Increases Sales Support in Southern U.S.

YORK, Pa. - August 22, 2013 - ENGEL has added a new representative agency Comet Plastics Equipment to work with Regional Sales Manager Rafael Izaguirre in providing sales and support to customers in the Southern U.S.A.

ENGEL North America, member of the ENGEL group, a world leader in the design and manufacture of injection molding machines and parts-handling automation, has added Comet Plastics Equipment to their Southern sales team.

Comet Plastics Equipment, founded in 1982 by plastics industry veteran Tom Rajkovich, is a manufacturer and supplier of auxiliary equipment, and will be the representative agency for ENGEL equipment in the state of Florida. Tom has worked in the plastics industry since 1968, beginning his career as a member of the inside sales team for an injection molding machine manufacturer before starting the representative agency Gem City Plastics (Ohio) in 1974. Tom is also a long time member of the Society of the Plastics Industry and has been active on several of their committees.

From their offices in Riviera Beach Florida, the staff of Comet will provide sales support for all lines of ENGEL injection molding machinery, robots and automation equipment, as well as service support products.

"I am very pleased to welcome Comet Plastic Equipment to our sales team," says Raff Izaguirre. "Their extensive knowledge of the injection molding industry and established presence in the territory make them a great resource for our customers and prospects."
